Contents

Preface xiii

1 Communication: its nature, scope and purpose 1
1.1 A common thread 1
1.2 The special ingredient 2
1.3 The management dimension 2
1.4 The nature of communication 3
1.4.1 Negative effects 3
1.4.2 Positive impact 4
1.5 The bonus of message plus method 6
1.5.1 The message 6
1.5.2 The method 6
1.5.3 The messenger 6
1.6 Seeking after excellence 7
1.7 Summary 8

2 What makes for effective communication 11
2.1 The difficulties of making communication effective 12
2.1.1 Inherent problems 12
2.2 Aids to effective communication 14
2.2.1 The ‘What about me?’ factor 14
2.2.2 The ‘That’s logical’ factor 15
2.2.3 The ‘I can relate to that’ factor 15
2.2.4 The ‘Again and again’ factor 16
2.3 Positioning your communication 16
2.4 Projecting the right impression 17
2.5 Amplifying communications 18
2.6 Summary 20

3 Prerequisites for success: preparation and listening 21
3.1 A fundamental truth 21
3.2 Listening 21
3.3 Preparation: a moment’s thought 22
3.4 Setting objectives 23
3.5 Deciding the message 24

3.6 Putting it together 24
3.6.1 Stage 1: Listing 25
3.6.2 Stage 2: Sorting 25
3.6.3 Stage 3: Arranging 25
3.6.4 Stage 4: Reviewing 26
3.6.5 Stage 5: Prepare the 'message' 26
3.6.6 Stage 6: A final check 26
3.7 Summary 27

4 Being persuasive: getting agreement from others 29
4.1 The logistics 29
4.2 Do unto others 30
4.2.1 Others' feelings 30
4.2.2 What others want 31
4.2.3 How decisions are made 32
4.3 The thinking involved 33
4.4 Your manner 34
4.5 Making a persuasive case 35
4.5.1 First impressions last 36
4.5.2 Finding out 36
4.5.3 The power of persuasion 37
4.6 Feedback 40
4.7 Securing agreement 40
4.8 Anticipating objections 41
4.9 Options for handling 41
4.10 Excuses 42
4.11 Reaching a conclusion 43
4.12 What next? – follow-up action 43
4.13 Summary 44

5 Meetings: making them work 45
5.1 They have their uses 45
5.2 Unnecessary costs 46
5.3 Before meetings take place 46
5.3.1 The agenda 47
5.4 The role of leading a meeting 48
5.4.1 The meeting leader's responsibilities 49
5.4.2 The conduct of the meeting 50
5.5 The individual attendee's responsibility 53
5.5.1 Maximizing the effectiveness of individual participation 54
5.5.2 Well-handled discussion 55
5.6 After the meeting 56
5.6.1 Are minutes necessary? 56
5.7 Summary 57

6 Presentations: speaking successfully 'on your feet' 59
6.1 The importance of presentations 59
6.2 A significant opportunity 60
6.3 The hazards of being 'on your feet' 60
6.4 Presenters' nightmares 61
6.4.1 Butterflies in the stomach 61
6.4.2 A dry mouth 61
6.4.3 Not knowing what to do with your hands 61
6.4.4 Not knowing how loud to speak 62
6.4.5 A hostile reaction 62
6.4.6 Not having sufficient material 62
6.4.7 Having too much material 62
6.4.8 Losing your place 62
6.4.9 Drying up 62
6.4.10 Misjudging the timing 62
6.5 Preparing to present 63
6.5.1 Do not try to read verbatim 63
6.5.2 Your audience 64
6.5.3 Clear purpose 65
6.5.4 How the group sees a presenter 65
6.5.5 How you see the audience 65
6.5.6 Before you speak 66
6.6 The structure of a presentation 67
6.6.1 The beginning 67
6.6.2 The middle 69
6.6.3 The end 72
6.7 Speaker's notes 73
6.7.1 The format of notes 74
6.8 Visual aids 76
6.8.1 The most important visual aid 76
6.8.2 General principles of using visual aids 77
6.8.3 Using an overhead projector 77
6.8.4 Beware gremlins 78
6.8.5 Anything and everything 79
6.9 Summary 79

7 Negotiation: making the best deal 81
7.1 A means to an end 81
7.2 A changing world 82
7.3 A special form of communication 82
7.4 The application of negotiation 83
7.5 The nature of negotiation 83
7.6 Three key factors 84
7.6.1 Information 84
7.6.2 Time 84
7.6.3 Power 85

7.7 A constructive process 85
7.8 The process of making the right deal 86
7.9 First things first 87
7.10 The core element 88
7.11 Techniques to add power 90
7.12 The tactics of negotiating: key techniques 90
7.13 Interpersonal behaviour 92
7.14 Keeping on track 93
7.14.1 Questioning 93
7.14.2 Listening 94
7.15 The scope of negotiation 95
7.15.1 Checklist 1: Summarizing the principles 95
7.15.2 Checklist 2: Summarizing the tactics 96
7.16 Summary 97

8 Telephone communication: its special nature 99
8.1 The nature of voice-only communication 99
8.2 An inherent fragility 100
8.3 An opportunity 101
8.4 The switchboard 101
8.5 Taking a call 103
8.6 Projecting the 'personal/corporate personality' 105
8.6.1 Internal image 105
8.6.2 External image 105
8.7 A telephone 'handshake' 106
8.8 Making the voice work for you 106
8.9 A wrong impression 107
8.10 Voice and manner 107
8.10.1 Speak slightly more slowly than normal 107
8.10.2 Make inflection work for you 108
8.10.3 Smile 108
8.10.4 Get the emphasis right 108
8.10.5 Ensure clarity 108
8.10.6 Be positive 109
8.10.7 Be concise 109
8.10.8 Avoid jargon 109
8.10.9 Be descriptive 109
8.10.10 Use gestures 110
8.10.11 Adopt the right tone 110
8.10.12 Sound yourself 110
8.11 Use of language 110
8.12 Listening 111
8.13 Creating a dialogue 111
8.14 Projecting the right image 112
8.15 Summary 112

9 The nature of the written word 113
9.1 A fragile process 113
9.2 A major opportunity 114
9.3 What makes good business writing? 114
9.3.1 Serious, and very serious 115
9.4 Why are we writing? 116
9.4.1 Reader expectations 116
9.4.2 Reader preference 116
9.4.3 The readers' perspective 117
9.5 Powerful habits 118
9.6 Earning a reading 118
9.6.1 The rewards of excellence 118
9.7 A significant opportunity 119
9.8 Summary 119

10 The writing process: what to say and how to say it 121
10.1 The difference language makes 121
10.1.1 Understandable 121
10.1.2 Readable 123
10.1.3 Straightforward 123
10.1.4 Natural 123
10.2 Readers' dislikes 124
10.3 The writer's approach 125
10.4 The use of language 125
10.5 Making language work for you 126
10.6 Mistakes to avoid 127
10.6.1 Blandness 127
10.6.2 'Office-speak' 128
10.6.3 Language of 'fashion' 128
10.6.4 Mistakes people hate 129
10.6.5 Clichés 129
10.7 Following the rules 129
10.8 Personal style 130
10.9 Summary 131

11 The different forms of written communication 133
11.1 Write right 133
11.2 First principles 133
11.2.1 Example 133
11.3 Letters with specific intention 134
11.3.1 Example 135
11.4 Reports 137
11.5 Formats demanding special approaches 138
11.6 Summary 139

12 The ubiquitous email: dos and don'ts 141
12.1 Email versus snail mail 141
12.2 Email – possible disadvantages? 142
12.3 Some basic guidelines 142
12.4 Time-wasting emails 145
12.5 Digital signatures and other security devices 146
12.6 Viruses 146
12.7 'Email-speak' – the role of language 147
12.8 Jargon, initialisms and acronyms 148
12.9 Attachments 148
12.10 Hyperlinks 149
12.11 Staying organized 149
12.12 Summary 150

13 Dealing with numbers 153
13.1 The nature of numbers and number 'blindness' 153
13.2 Action to help 153
13.3 Methods of presenting numbers clearly 154
13.3.1 Graphs and charts 154
13.4 Language 158
13.5 Summary 160

Afterword 161

Index 163